ART AND BOOK SALES

Roland Lincoln-Heft Picture Sale

A sale of 15 watercolors and pastels and 57 oils, owned by Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln of Jamaica Plain, Mass., ten oils from the estate of Col. Nathan H. Heft of Bridgeport, Conn., with six additional oils from private owners, held under the auspices of the American Art Association in the Plaza Ballroom, evening of Jan. 22 last, with Mr. Thomas E. Kirby as auctioneer, resulted in a total of $106,085. Two pictures from private owners, a Tocqué, a presumed portrait of Catherine of Russia, and the well-known large figure work by Charlemont, "The Pages," formerly in the Yerkes collection and later in the T. J. Blakeslee Gallery, entered from private owners at "upset" prices of $2,000 and $4000 respectively, did not obtain bids at these figures and were not sold.

The ballroom was well filled with a good audience, but, although as Mr. Kirby well said, "the pictures owned by Mrs. Lincoln were assembled by a connoisseur," the bidding was weak, save for the Winslow Homer "Wild Geese in Flight." This brought the record auction price for a Homer (The Macbeth Galleries sold the artist's "Maine Coast in Winter" to a private customer for $35,000 recently) of $28,000 from the Macbeth Galleries. This was also the top price of the sale.

WINSLOW HOMER SOLD FOR $28,000

"Wild Geese in Flight" Leads

Sale of Collection of Paintings of Mrs. R. C. Lincoln.

N.Y. Times Jan. 22/20

NINE THAULOWS, $17,850

A Corot Brings $3,700, Cazin's

"Landscape Sunset" $3,500, and a Small Mauve $3,050.

It was a Winslow Homer which brought the striking price in the sale of the collection of paintings of Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln, under the auspices of the American Art Association at the Hotel Plaza, Thomas C. Kirby in the auctioneer's chair, last evening. The Homer "Wild Geese in Flight" was a large and beautiful picture and it soared in price far above all others in the sale, going to the Macbeth Galleries for $28,000, more than half as much again as was paid for the entire lot of nine beautiful Fritz Thaulows which individually brought some of the higher prices of the evening, but as a whole only reached $17,850.

It was a lovely soft toned picture, the wild geese in their gay brown and black plumage flying over the sand dunes on which were lying two of their companions brought down by the hunters. It was painted by the artist in 1897 and had been exhibited in the museums of Boston and Worcester, the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts and the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh. It started at $5,000, a higher price than was paid for any other picture in the sale, and there was applause when it was knocked down for the selling price. In dimensions it was 34 inches by 50%.

There were a few pictures in the evening's sale from other private collectors than Mrs. Lincoln, or from estates, and a Corot, "Ville d'Avray: L'Etang et la Maison Cabassud," from the collection of the late Colonel Nathan H. Heft of Bridgeport, Conn., brought the second highest price, going to M. H. Goldblatt for $3,700, and it will go to Chicago. A Cazin, one of the Lincoln pictures, "Landscape: Sunset," went to Ex-Senator William A. Clark for $3,500. A small Mauve, "Winter Work in the Woods," went to John Levy for $3,050, and what was called the best of the Thaulows, "Winter Landscape," went to Howard Young for $3,000.

A small portrait, "Mary," by the American artist, George de Forest Brush, whose work is almost never found in public sales went to Knoedler & Co. for $2,350. Some of the pictures were held at an upset price and passed, and the total for the remainder was $106,085.

A large Charbonnier, "The Pages," one of the big pictures of the Yerkes sale, which then brought $6,400 and later was sold for $7,000, was held for a $3,000 bid last night and withdrawn. It was catalogued as the property of a private owner. Two or three other pictures catalogued, but not shown, were not in the sale.

A WINSLOW HOMER SELLS FOR $28,000

New Auction Record for Famous American Made by "Wild Geese."

$106,085 TOTAL OF SALE

Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln's Collection Is Bringing Satisfaction Prices.

Relative values may be slow, but in the art auctions they are sure. Winslow Homer, who is a giant among American artists, last night became a giant of the auction rooms, one of his pictures, the "Wild Geese in Flight," selling in the sale of the Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln collection for $28,000, a new auction record for him. The sale was conducted by the American Art Association, Mr. Kirby wielding the baton.

The picture, which has been exhibited in many museums, shows some wild geese flying at close range, with two in the foreground that have been brought down by marksmen. It is ruggedly painted, as are all Homer's canvases. It was purchased by the Macbeth Gallery.

Ex-Senator W. A. Clark bought the sunset by Cazen for $3,500 and M. H. Goldblatt gave $3,700 for the Corot landscape.

The list of pictures that sold for $200 and more is as follows:

1—Johannes Bosboom, Nieuwe Kerk, Delft; M. J. Levy.....	$220
4—Johannes Bosboom, Cathedral Interior; Scott & Fowles.....	475

$28,000 PAID FOR A WINSLOW HOMER

'Wild Geese in Flight' Fetches
Top Price at $106,085
Sale.

A COROT BRINGS $3,700

Pictures from Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln's Collection and Other Estates Sold.

Pastels, water colors and paintings from the collection of Mrs. Roland C. Lincoln of Forest Hills, Jamaica Plain, Mass. with a few additions from other estates were sold in the ballroom of the Plaza Hotel last night by Thomas E. Kirby, of the American Art Association. Mrs. Lincoln has long been acknowledged a connoisseur in all three forms of art by American and foreign artists. For this reason there was a good demand for her pictures and the prices realized were considered excellent. The sale totalled $106,085.

The top price of $28,000 was paid by the Macbeth Galleries for Winslow Homer's "Wild Geese in Flight." The second best price of $3,700 was given by M. H. Goldblatt, for Corot's "Ville d'Avray," and the third high price of $3,500, was bid by former Senator William A. Clark, for "Landscape," by Jean C. Cazin. Twenty-six other pictures brought prices in excess of $1,000 each.

The paintings, the artists, the buyers and the prices over $500 paid in that order were:—

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

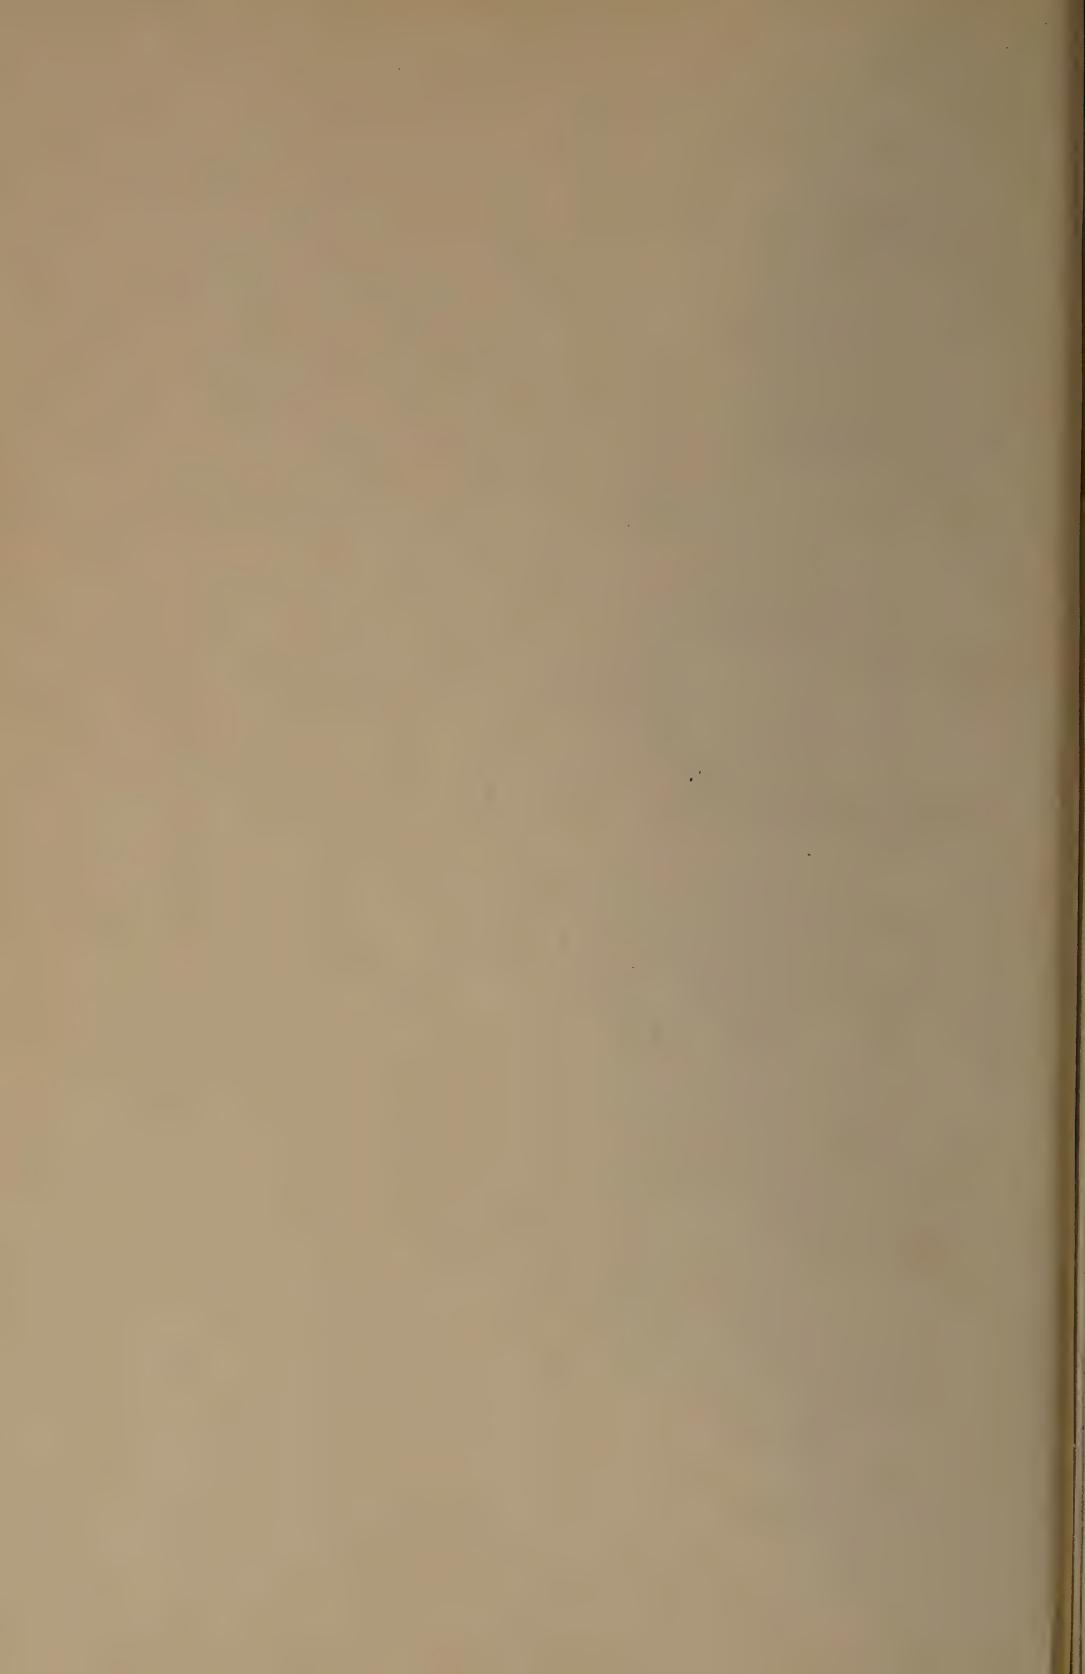

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

Height, 49 inches; width, 27 inches

R. C. W. M. 1906

ON the green and brown steps of a porch, before an opened screen door, two small sisters dressed in white and hatless are seated, the younger busy with a toy and the larger girl watching her. Both are golden-haired, and their hair is tied with bows respectively of pale blue and violet. A dog is asleep beside them, and through the doorway may be seen the greenery of a garden.

FROM the interior of a large cottage living room the spectator looks out through an open doorway and through a window to a green garden flooded with sunshine and made colorful by sunflowers and hollyhocks. Through doorway and window the sunshine streams into the room, on whose red-tiled floor two children are at play, at the feet of their white-capped mother who is sewing at the window. At left a kettle over a hearth fire. The scene is at the artist's studio at Blaricum, near Laven, Holland.

WILD geese showing their gray and brown and black plumage, and white spottings, are seen close at hand, flying low over rolling and seamed sand dunes which are tufted with green and yellow, brown and purplish herbage. Three of the birds are closely observed on the wing, and in the immediate foreground lie two which marksmen have brought down. Sky alight with white morning clouds.

64—GOLDEN SUNSHINE: SUNNY LANDSCAPE

700-1 Height, 20 inches; length, 24 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches O. Belheim

A HILLY land of lightly rolling surface, the general trend of its slope being from the right and away from the spectator, is brilliant—fairly glowing—in sunshine, which makes also brilliantly golden the trunks and delicate foliage of picturesque, detached trees—they have the appearance of olive trees—standing out against a light turquoise sky. A woman and child are seen in the sunlight, just as the land dips into a ravine which is darkened by woods, whose deep shadow in the background intensifies the effect of the strong light illuminating foreground and sky.

65—THE SUNLIT HILL

650-1 Height, 30 inches; length, 40 inches Paul Halkin

ROLLING hills forming a high skyline dip toward the spectator, their slopes ending at a valley in the foreground where sheep are pastured. Several lambs are among the flock, one being suckled by a patient ewe who turns her head toward the observer. The pasture is bordered across the middle distance by trees brown in autumn, and two fires are alight in front of them. Back of them the flanks of the hills are gray-green, with one broad incline golden-yellow and orange—the whole landscape bathed in sunshine.

M. H. Goldblatt

ON the right the shadowed edge of a wood, and skirting it a narrow yellow-sandy road which is presently screened from view by a group of slender trees with feathery gray-green foliage, which stand in the sunny and grassy foreground on the bank of a river. Here at the water's edge a woman kneels, holding her infant. On the farther and higher bank of the stream, toward which the road leads, there stands well back beyond a green slope a long gray building of composite structure—the Maison Cabassud—whose reflection is seen in the water below. In the background a wooded ridge cuts a delicate blue sky filled with drifting fleecy white clouds. A French writer has said of this picture that the clouds pass before the sky like transparent wings, that the light foliage of the willows and birches seems to bear the singing nests, and that one divines that the mother's tenderness makes her child laugh in this environment of nature en fête.

A GREEN and narrow foreground slopes to a rush-bordered stream which sweeps across the picture, the water surface mottled with varied reflections of land and sky. The farther bank, rough and irregular in its conformation, is green with velvety grass, and is illuminated by sunshine which also lights the soft foliage of bordering trees that stand at the edge of a wood. The wood is dense beyond them, and forms the skyline against a confusion of grayish clouds which all but hide the blue. Near the water a man is seen.

IN a sunny field road curving around a hillock which stands, bordered by short trees, on the right, cows and sheep and a man and woman are moving toward the spectator and appear in the centre of the composition, close in the foreground. Furthest left of the group are two cows, a red one and a red and white one, and beside them on the right is a flock of sheep—the sunshine warming the fleece and the bovine coats to rich hues. In rear of the sheep is the shepherd, standing in shadow of an equestrienne who follows close behind the animals. Her mount is a tall white horse, and she wears an orange dress and a white sunbonnet. In the background toward the left, a waterside landscape with sail and habitations.

70—THE OX TRAIN

1825

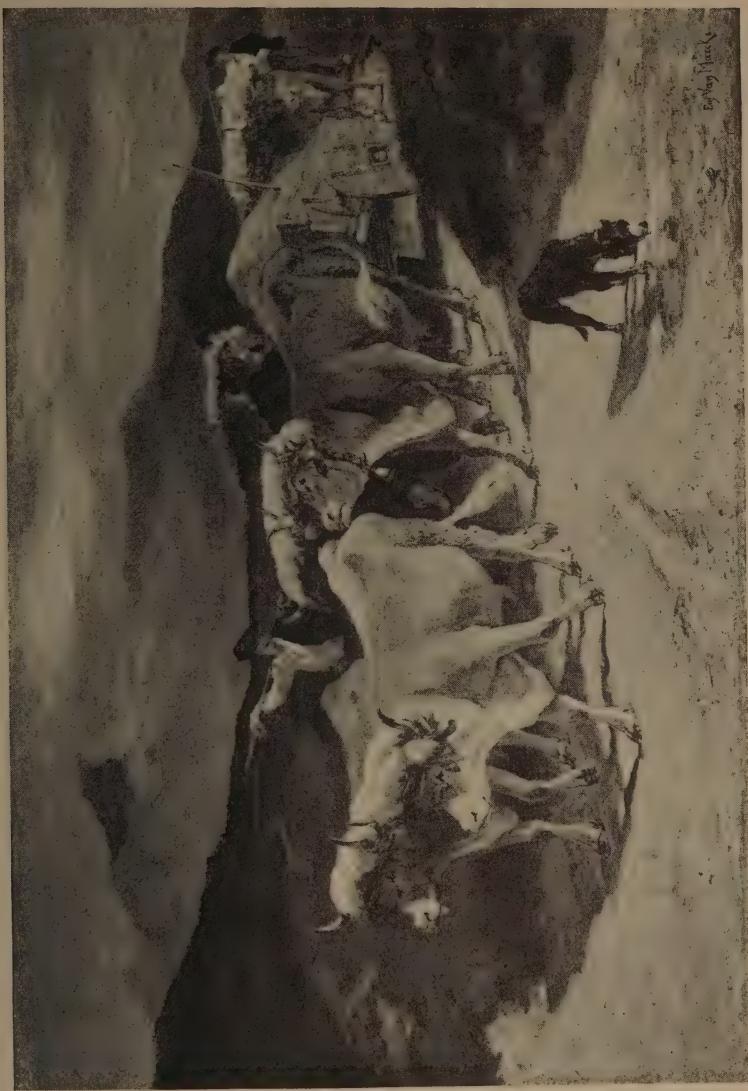

Height, 40 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches; length, 59 inches

Paul Mathémo

AN unusual and very striking van Marcke; its motive,—power, urge and restraint, at the same time; its local apparently Spanish; it comprehends, besides animals, human figures and landscape, none of the elements of the composition being neglected in the studious consideration of the whole. In a mountainous country a train of ox-drawn wagons is depicted, making heavy way in an uneven road which winds into the foreground. Here, moving toward the left, a team of four oxen is close before the observer, seen in bright sunshine and hitched to a heavily loaded antique cart with solid wooden wheels. The wheel-pair of oxen are holding back the load as the cart descends a light incline. Behind come two more similar carts—the drivers of all walking, with their goads, beside their teams. In the foreground a dog stops to drink at a pool. Background of high mountains under a blue sky with drifting strata of white cloud.

71—LE MARE DANS LA CLAIRIÈRE

Height, 44 inches; length, 55½ inches

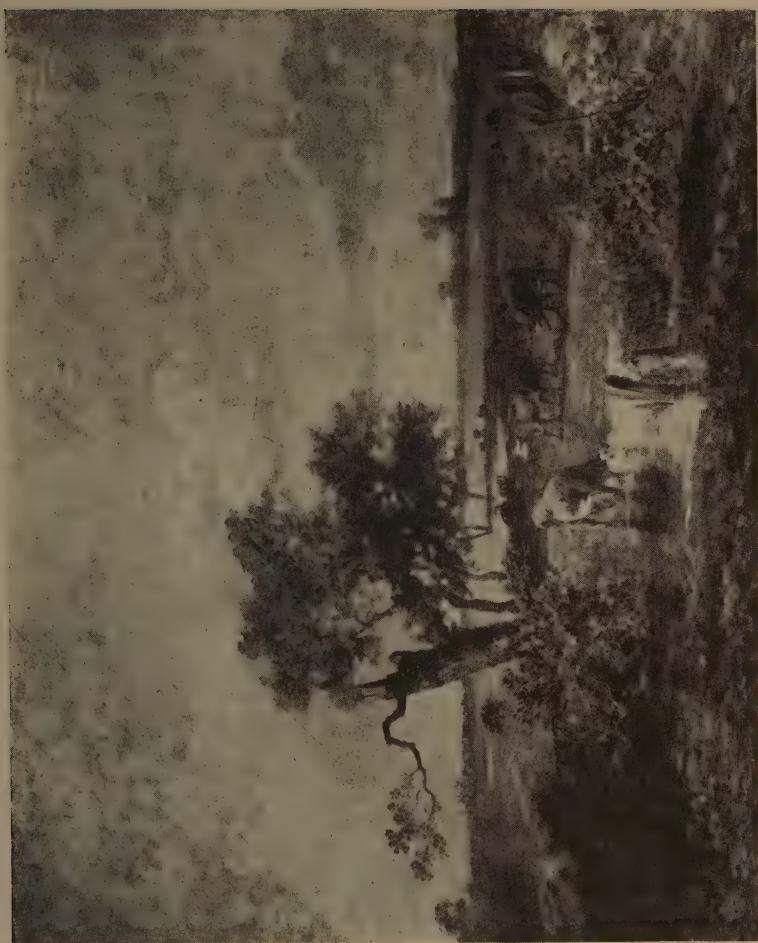

BROAD meadows green and brown and golden in shadow and sunshine spread far to right and left, before a distant level line of low trees, under a sky of many clouds rolling in mellow hues before the pale turquoise ether above them. In the foreground, at the edge of the meadows, numerous cows are reclining in the shade or standing in the sun, and one is drinking in a pool at whose edge are bushes and a few trees. At right, the figure of a peasant woman. Becoming enthusiastic in contemplation of this painting, a French writer saw in the cow drinking "her rough body quivering under its reddish coat," he saw the peasant woman "talking to her dog," and the dead oak near the pool as a "vanquished giant, expending the last feverish flow of its sap to cheer the end of a branch which grimaces at leaves already brown." He found, above the realism of the forms, that the painter has made the scene "scintillate as the apotheosis of a beautiful summer day."

72—THE WHITE ROSE

1950-
Height, 62½ inches; width, 36½ inches Holland Gallerie

(Panel)

a. J. Hallow

Height, 39½ inches; width, 32 inches

IN brilliant seventeenth century apparel and wearing a large, wide-brimmed black hat, which is tilted back and frames his features, a booted cavalier is portrayed nearly at full-length, seated, with figure to left and face turned toward the spectator. He is observed against a background composed of a pillared balcony and a colorful landscape which extends far beneath a gray sky. He is well-fed, and brusque of manner, and sits with left hand on hip, arm akimbo, his right hand resting on his knee and holding idly a heavy walking-stick. His velvet jacket of grayish-buff is adorned in gold, and his white lace collar falls in a profusion of folds about his shoulders and breast.

Oil on canvas

Height, 51 inches; width, 37½ inches

THE portrait of a smiling, rosy-cheeked and youthful French beauty of the eighteenth century, seated facing very slightly towards the left, and bestowing her affable gaze upon the observer. She is in a décolleté bodice of white satin trimmed in gold, and a garland of roses and other flowers encircling her shoulders falls from one of them down the line of the lace-edged corsage. A blue mantle enfolds one arm and her lower figure, the other arm resting on a red cushion which lies on the chair-arm. Her sleeves are short and lace trimmed. Spread over her lap is a large open book of music, a leaf of which she lightly catches up to turn the page. Dark brownish neutral background.

75—PORTRAIT OF A VENETIAN LADY

200

— Height, 45 inches; width, 34½ inches

A. J. Shallow

THREE-QUARTER length standing figure of an attractive patrician lady, very human and engaging, whose ample proportions are further emphasized by the broad and heavy folds of her amplitudinous skirt, which is dressed high above her hips and loops low below the centre of the bodice. She faces the front, turned very slightly toward the right, and looks with large dark eyes directly at the observer. She has golden hair and a warm complexion, and she is seen in a warm and rich golden light, which enhances the white and gold of her inner bodice and its shoulder-pieces—an intricate and brilliant fabric. The outer bodice and skirt are dark. The light which adds gold to her hair and to the ornamentation of her waist, also warms and softens the flesh tones of neck and breast, and is itself enriched by the contrast of a deep black background. She wears a pearl necklace and a jeweled girdle, and holds a glove at her waist.

79—*PORTRAIT OF MARGHERITA DI MANTUA,
DUCHESS OF FERRARA*

475-

Height, 56½ inches; width, 40½ inches William Taylor

THREE-QUARTER length; three quarters to the left. In the formal costume of the sixteenth century; black gown trimmed with gold braid and large flowing sleeves which reveal close-fitting undersleeves of material of gold and silver texture; large circular lace ruff, pearl earrings, pearl pendant in the hair. In the left foreground a table covered with a red cloth and writing materials thereon, together with a scrap of paper inscribed with her name. Her right hand before her breast; her left by her side. A curtain hanging in the background.

Pourbus, although a native of Antwerp, went to Mantua and there became court painter, a position that he afterward held at the court in Paris.

This would seem to represent Margherita Gonzaga, at Mantua, Duchess of Ferrara, wife of Alfonso II d'Este (1564-1618).

80—PORTRAIT OF MARIE LECZINSKA, QUEEN OF FRANCE

ouh

Height, 58 inches; width, 46 inches

THREE-QUARTER length; in full face. Her white robe of splendid texture is brocaded with floral ramages, and the sleeves are formed of successive rows of lace. Her blue corsage is richly embroidered with gold, edged with lace, and ornamented with pearls en bandaloque. Her royal mantle is fleurdelisé and lined with ermine, and she gathers up the folds of it with her left hand. A three-drop pearl pendant is in her powdered hair. Three crowns of state are placed side by side on a gold-tasseled red cushion placed on the console, on which she rests herself, in the left background. A red curtain on the left; a column and base on the right.

Signed, and dated 1783, in the left foreground.

Marie Leczinska (1703-1768), daughter of Stanislas, King of Poland and Duke of Lorraine, became the Queen of Louis XV in 1725. She had to suffer many indignities and much humiliation through the favors conferred by the king on Mesdames de Chateauroux, de Mailly and de Pompadour; and to them succeeded in influence Madame du Barry.

In the Louvre (No. 867) there is a full-length portrait of the Queen by Tocqué which shows her in costume and of usual pose, much as she is represented here, life-size but standing at full length. The setting of that portrait, which measures 118 inches by 75 inches, represents her in a vast salle, with architectural background, and with columns in the right foreground. It was engraved by Daulle. This would seem to be a relatively early portrait of the Queen.

81—PORTRAIT (Presumed) OF MARIE THÉRÈSE

oval

Height, 78 inches; width, 56 inches

FULL length; to the front seated in a high-backed blue chair of state; wearing a rich red robe, and an embroidered gold mantle lined with fur. Her dress is cut low; roses in her powdered hair, which falls in curls on her shoulders; pearl earrings. Her feet rest on a blue footstool; her right hand is extended, and touches the top of the crown placed on a red cushion on the table on the left.

Said to have been formerly in the collection of Emile Gavet; but the portrait of Marie Thérèse, of the school of Mignard, included in his sale of May 8, 1906, No. 27, was oval in shape and measured only 26 by 21 inches.

82—THE PAGES

Painted

Height, 77 3/4 inches; length, 109 inches

NEARLY life-size figures. The interior of a spacious vestibule, with a tapestry hanging on the wall at the back. Four young nobles, dressed as pages, playing dice. The one on the right, in red and gold-embroidered costume, leans his head against a pillar as he holds in his right hand a red cord attached to the collar of a large dog. The next page, wearing white breeches, yellow shoes and a gray satin doublet, holds in his right hand a book fastened with pink ties; his left rests on the head of a dog. He is interested in the game of dice as played by the page dressed in black, and the other, who, clad in light brown and seen on the left, with his back to the spectator, rests a hand on the flint musket that lies on the floor near him; the butt end of the musket is richly inlaid with ivory.
